

POLICY OF CONFIDENTIALITY FOR HORIZON TRADING WEBSITE USERS PERSONAL INFORMATION

1. General information

1.1. The current Policy defines the procedures of processing and protecting personal information related to physical entities (hereafter – User), that can be acquired by “WORLD” CO LTD. when the User purchases services/products, creates personal profile or places service/product orders or applies for technical support, in particular via Horizon trading website (horizonfx.org), or other services, software owned and/or utilized by “WORLD” CO LTD. (hereafter – website, services).

1.2. The current Policy aims at protecting personal information that the User provides when accessing Horizon trading website, its services or during registration procedure (creating a personal profile), to acquire products/services, access personalized services, from unauthorized access and dissemination.

1.3. The current Policy regulates procedures of collecting, saving, spreading and protecting User personal information. These procedures are also regulated by GDPR and other legal documents.

1.4. By registering on Horizon trading website and using the website and its services, the User fully agrees with the current Policy. Policy of confidentiality does not cover the websites of other companies and organizations that Horizon trading website might be linked to.

1.5. If the User disagrees with the current Policy, he/she must immediately cease any usage of the website and/or any services, provided by the website.

1.6. If the User is not interested to receive the information from Horizon Trading he can unsubscribe from emailing by:

- clicking ‘Unsubscribe’ at the end of the letter;
- unchecking the relevant options in the User personal profile;
- sending notification to info@horizonfx.org.

When the notification is sent to info@horizonfx.org User request is created within a special software based on the information, provided by the User. Upon processing is completed, the User information is excluded from the regional emailing system.

2. Aims of gathering, processing and saving User personal information

2.1. Personal data processing is regulated by GDPR. Horizon Trading utilizes User personal data to:

- identify parties that sign agreements as users of Horizon trading websites;
- provide services/products, access to the website, services, technical support to the User;
- contact the User, send transaction notification to the User upon receiving the website registration request, orders for services or receiving one-time User payments in case the User performs any of these actions; send notifications and requests to the User;
- send advertising or informative messages to the User;
- check, research and analyze the data which allows to maintain and improve services and website sections and develop new services and website sections;
- perform statistical and other research based on anonymous data.

3. Terms of processing of User-provided personal information and disclosing it to third parties

3.1. “WORLD” CO LTD. takes all necessary measures to protect User personal information from unauthorized access, altering, disclosure or deleting.

3.2. Provides access to User personal information to the employees and contractors who may require it to ensure proper website functioning and provision of services/products to the User.

3.3. “WORLD” CO LTD. is authorized to utilize the User information, including personal information, to ensure compliance with the GDPR (including prevention and/or interdiction of any illegal User activity). User-provided personal information can be disclosed according to at the request of the court, request from law enforcement bodies and in other cases provided for by the general regulations for the protection of personal data.

3.4. “WORLD” CO LTD. does not check the authenticity of the information provided by the User and implies that the User, in pursuit of good will, provides accurate and sufficient information, updates the existing information in due time if necessary, including, but not limited to, the phone number.

4. Terms of website, services usage:

4.1. By accessing the website, the User confirms that he/she:

- is eligible to register (create a personal profile) and use website services;
- provides genuine personal information which is sufficient for using website services; the required fields contain special marks; all other information is provided at the User’s discretion;
- is aware that the information that he/she places on the website can become available to thirds parties, not mentioned in the current Policy and can be copied and spread by them;
- got familiarized with the current Policy, agrees with and accepts its terms. Agreeing with the current Policy and checking the box below the link to the Policy is a written agreement of the User to collecting, saving, processing and providing the User personal information to third parties.

4.2. “WORLD” CO LTD. does not check the authenticity of the provided (collected) information about the User, except for cases, when such checking is required to fulfill the obligations to the User.

5. The current Policy provides the following definitions of “User personal information”:

5.1. Information, provided by the User, when he/she uses the website, services, including, but not limited to, personal name, phone number, email.

5.2. Information that is automatically provided to the services that the User accesses via the software installed on User’s devices, including IP, cookies, User browser information (or other software used to access the services), time of access, URLs of the accessed page.

5.3 Other information about the User, which can be collected and/or provided in compliance with the regulatory documents of specific services.

6. Editing and deleting personal information

6.1. The User can edit (update, specify) the provided information or its part, as well as its confidentiality parameters anytime by using ‘edit personal information’ function in the tab, or in the Personal Tab of the respective service. The User is responsible for providing the up-to-date information; otherwise “WORLD” CO LTD. will not be liable for non-receipt of notifications, products/services, etc.

6.2. The User can also delete the provided personal information from his personal profile. Note, that deleting an account may result in the inability to use certain services.

7. Amending Confidentiality Policy. Applicable legislation

7.1. “WORLD” CO LTD. is entitled to amend the current Policy. The current Policy dates back to the most recent amendment.

7.2. The Policy and all the interactions between the User and Horizon Trading website arising from the use of the Privacy Policy are subject to GDPR.

8. Feedback. Questions and suggestions

8.1. All questions and suggestions about the current Policy are sent to email: info@horizonfx.org.

8.2. Information about the company: «WORLD» CO. LTD. Reg. num: 1089847225820
VAT: 7814409821/780201001